

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

AS the Public is ever favourable to Works of this Nature, I shall make no Apology for the present Undertaking. But to satisfy my Readers what Pains I have been at not to impose upon them, and what Opportunities I have had of being informed, I beg leave to present them with a short Account of the following Sheets.

The Abstract of the Moghol History is extracted from the 6th Vol. of Tarîkh Rozit al Suffa, Vakeât Babri, Maçir Jehanguîry, Padshahama, and Tarîkh Alumguîri, &c. A particular Account of which will be found in the Catalogue of Manuscripts at the End of

iv The P R E F A C E.

The Book. As I have so large and choice a Collection of Eastern Histories for that Purpose, the Authenticity of it will not be disputed.

As to that Part which gives an Account of the State of Affairs in the Moghol Empire before the Persian Invasion, with the Springs that effected the same, I have translated it from a Persian Manuscript sent to Dr. Mead, by Humfrics Cole Esq; Chief of the English Factory at Patna in the East-Indies. That the Facts therein are true, I am well assured; having myself lived in India above Ten Years, the last Three of which, I held a constant Correspondence with some Persians and Moghols there, and that frequently on the Subject of Nadir Shah's Expedition.

The Account of Nadir Shah's first Exploits I have been favoured with from a Gentleman now in England, who resided several Years in Persia, speaks that Language, and has been frequently in Company with that Conqueror.

The Journal of his Transactions in India, with the Letters and Cession of the Provinces, were transmitted from Dehli, by the Secretary of Sirbullind Khan (whom Nadir Shah had appointed to be one of the Commissioners for for letting the Contributions) to Mirza Moghol, Son to Ali Mahommed Khan at Ahmedabad, who being my intimate Friend, gave it to me.

I have been as full in the Notes as possible, and explained whatever Terms I thought required it: Several proper Names and Words I have expressed in the Original Characters, which I thought would be entertaining to those who know any Thing of the Arabic or Persic; and not disagreeable even to those who do not, as they are immediately after set down in Roman Characters, with a proper Explanation. As several of those Terms have occurred more than once, I have annexed an Index of them, referring to the Page in which they are particularly explained.

In the Abstract of the Moghol History, I have reduced the Dates of the Hegira to the Year of our Lord, but in the remaining Part I have kept the Original Dates, and put ours in the Notes.

The learned Reader will please to observe, that in two or three Persic Words, I have been obliged to make use of the Letter B. instead of P. there being no such Letter in the Arabic Types, which I have been favoured with by the Society for propagating Christian Knowledge, ledge, at the Recommendation of his Lordship the Bishop of Litchfield and Coventry.

The Oriental Manuscripts, of which I have annexed a Catalogue at the End of these Sheets, have been collected from the Year 1730 to 1740, and purchased with no small Labour and Expence, at Surat, Cambay, and Ahmedabad in the East-Indies; excepting a few which I bought at Mocha in Arabia, from some Persians who passed that Way on their Pilgrimage to Mecca.

The first Master under whom I studied the Persic, was a Parfi, (or one of the Race of the ancient Persians) now at Surat. The second was a Mullah of one of the Mosques there, whose Name is Fakhr o'din. When I was at Cambay, I studied under Shékh Mahommed Morad, a Man famous in those Parts for his Knowledge of the Mahommedan Civil and Ecclesiastical Laws. During my Stay in that Place, I employed three Hours each Day with one Srî. Nât Veaz, a learned Brahmin, whom I allowed a Salary on that Account; it was by his Means I procured my Sanskerrit Manuscripts, which (I believe) is the first Collection of that Kind ever brought into Europe.

From which Time until his Death, which was Thirty-five Years Eleven Months and Five Days, he subdued the better Part of the Earth, and obtain'd Victories that might eclipse the Glory of all the Exploits before his Time. He conquered Mawarahnahr (or Trans-oxane Tartary) Biddukhsan, Rhinarism, Turkestan, Zabulistan, Kabul, Ghor and Hin-

In the Year 1398, he set out on his Expedition to India; and on the 16th of December the same Year, he took the Capital Dehli, having then an Army of near 100,000 Horse. But finding a general Conquest of India would be attended with much Difficulty, and the keeping it afterwards impracticable, he bent his Thoughts on an Expedition against the Turks, and Three Years Eight Months after the taking of Dehli, in the latter End of 1401, with an Army of near 200,000 Horse he set out against Eildirm || Baiazed, the Son of Sultan Morad Khan (corruply call'd Amurath); and on the 28th of July, 1402, on the Plains of Angora in Galatia, defeated him and his numerous Army. October,

OF THE MOGHOL EMPERORS.

October, 1542 and on the 12th of February, 1556 being then Thirteen Solar Years and Four Months old, was proclaimed Emperor at Calamora in the Province of Labor. He was reckon'd a great and good Prince, and was very fortunate, having in his Reign made several Conquests, and reduced almost all India to Obedience. The Particulars of which are to be seen in Akharnama, a History compos'd by his Secretary and Vizir Abul Fazl *, and in Tebcat Akbar Shahi, and Montekheb Tuarikh Bedaurni. As he was professedly fixed to no Religion himself, so he was a Persecutor of none. In 1582 he wrote a Letter to the King of Portugal, desiring he would send to him a Translation of the Scriptures into Arabic or Persian, and at the same

Upon this Mabommed Shah laid aside that Expedition, and returned towards Debli, in order to cut off Seyd Abdallah Khan, the other Brother, who was in that Capital with a great Force; and who hearing of his Brother's Murder, had taken out Sultan Ibrahim, Son to Rasfeib al Shah, and proclaimed him Emperor. Gathering together what Treasure he could, and having broke to Pieces the famous Throne, (which cost Shah Jehan nine Crores of Rupees) in order to pay his Soldiers, he soon compleated an Army of 50,000 Horse, and marched out to engage Mabommed Shah, who had encamp'd at Serkad, which is Twelve Cois from Mbatra.

Upon this Victory the Emperor made great Rejoicings, and appointing Mabommed Amin Khan Vizir, returned to Debli.

Abdallah Khan being brought before him, the Emperor said to him, 'Traitor, see what thou hast done.' To which he answered, 'I took you out of a Prison, and gave you an Empire. My Brother being murdered by your Order, as I was at the Head of an Army, Self-preservation directed me to make use of it; Providence decreed you the Victory, use it as you think proper, by treating this Clay as your Resentment or Interest may prompt you.' Then the Emperor said to him, 'What Harm had Furrukhsir done to you?' To which he answered: 'He grew jealous of mine and my Brother's Power, and as it was inconsistent with our Interest to resign it into his Hands, we thought it dangerous to lose any Time in removing him. prudent hitherto, we should not have come to this tragical End. But when Fate destines one to Ruin, it begins by blinding the Eyes of his Understanding. Then the King ordered him, to be confined, and four Servants allowed to attend him, and said, As for the young Sultan he is not to blame; were he to be punished, it would distract his poor Mother; let him remain with her.

† In ancient Times, none but the Wives of the Brahmins (or Indian Priests) had the Privilege of burning themselves with their deceased Husbands: But since the Government fell into the Hands of the Rajpouts, 'tis customary, when any of their Princes die, for one or more of their Wives to be burnt with him. There is no Compulsion to this Sacrifice, as some People wrongly imagine; 'tis entirely of their own accord, and often they are dissuaded from it. Sometimes indeed, when a vain-glorious Passion prevails over natural Affection, the Widow's Relations would gladly have her burn, as it raises the Character of their Family, by making it remarkable for virtuous and loving Women. Yet, according to their Religion, 'tis more meritorious to behave chastly and decently in their Widowhood, until Death, than burning; because one is but a short Pain, and the other a State of Trial. which is so, that Bajirao should march as far as Dahol, and plunder and lay waste all before him: that, at length, the Emperor, and those about him, might be roused out of their Indolence, and be sensible of their ill Conduct. The Maharattas soon overrun the Province of Malwa, killed Guerder Babadr, the Governor thereof, and seized all his Treasure and Effects. After having laid waste and destroyed all the Country around, they returned to Deccan. As no Notice was taken at Court of these Inroads, next Year they marched towards Guzerat, where, notwithstanding the Inhabitants agreed to pay a quarter Part,* they plundered and distressed them in a severe Manner: They also ravaged the Country round about Gualiar, which being near the Capital, the Court was alarmed, and Khandran, with Kummir o'din Khan and other Omras, sent with a powerful Army to chastise them; but these great Officers thought Peace the safest Measure, agreed to pay the Quarter Part, and returned Home. Notwithstanding this Agreement, and the Money being paid, the Mabarattas did not spare those Places from being plundered, but even resolved to march as far as Agra to receive the Quarter Part for Debli. The aforesaid Officers set out again, and came to the City of Agra: A little before their Arrival, the Mabarattas had crossed the River Jumna, with an Intent to march into Audih, the Province governed by Saadit Khan, who having Notice of their Design, march'd against them with a strong Body, and after an obstinate Engagement defeated them, took two of their principal Officers, and killed 5000 of their Men. With the Remains of their Army they marched to Feridabad, which is Ten Coss from Debli. Upon which Khandorah and the Vizir, being joined by Saadit Khan, went in pursuit of them: The Mabarattas had left that Place Three Hours before the Omras Arrival, and marched towards Kalka, near Debli; which being a Place of Worship for that Day, the greatest Part of the Inhabitants had assembled there: They robb'd them of all they had, but spared their Lives; and knowing the City had but few Forces therein, they intended to plunder it; of which the Emperor being informed, he ordered Emir Khan and Hossan Khan, with all the Companies belonging to the Train of Artillery, to go and oppose them. They accordingly marched out, and after an Engagement of a few Hours, Hossan Khan was killed, and Emir Khan, with the rest of his Army, almost routed, and the Mabarattas on the Point of entering the City, when the Kizir, who had out-marched the other two Omras, came to his Assistance; the Enemy was soon defeated, and put to Flight: The Vizir pursued them to Allawerdi Khan's Serai,† which is Seven Coss from Debli, where coming up with them, and having no Inclination to fight, he secretly made up Matters: Upon which they marched back to Deccan. Saadet Khan being somewhat puffed up with his own good Services, and incensed at this shameful Compromise with the Ganims, marched towards his own Province, without waiting on his Majesty; but the other Omras enter'd the City, and paid their Respects to him.

The Emperor was again inclined to send for Nizam al Muluck, thinking that while he continued in Deccan he should be always in Fear of (or actually disturbed by) these Excursions of the Mabarattas. Mehr Parvir, his Grandmother, who had great Interest with Nizam, at his Request, wrote him a Letter, full of Assurances that he should have the entire Management of Affairs at Court, provided he came without Delay. He complied with her Request; but met with a worse Treatment than formerly. The Omras not only disregarded him, but took all Opportunities of affronting him, especially Kbandoran and his Creatures, who, when he came to pay his Respects at Court, used to ridicule him, saying to each other, Observe how the Deccan Monkey dances. This Usage having wrought him up to the highest Pitch of Resentment, he was resolved to revenge himself by distressing the Empire, and destroying Kbandoran and his Creatures. He imparted his Design to the Vizir, Kummir o'din Khan, imagining he would join with him.

him. But notwithstanding the Alliance between them (Nizam's Son being married to the Vizir's Daughter, and the Vizir's Son to Nizam's Daughter) he could not engage him to join in any Plot detrimental to the public Interest; on the contrary, he used his Endeavours to dissuade him therefrom, by representing to him the Infamy of sacrificing his Country to private Resentment. When Nizam perceived he would not come into his Measures, he applied himself to Saadit Khan, the Soubahdar of Audib, who then had a great Body of Men, was an Officer of Experience, and had lately raised his Reputation by his Action with the Maharattas; and, what was still more to his Purpose, had, since that Time, stood ill-affected towards the Emperor and Kbandoran. Having entered into an Agreement, it was resolved that Nadir Shah, Ruler of Persia, who then was besieging Kandabar, should be the Instrument to distress the Emperor, and remove Kbandoran from amongst them.

But before I relate the treacherous Correspondence carried on between Nizam, Saadit Khan and Nadir Shah, with the Invitation they they gave him to march towards Hindostan, which was the principal Motive that encouraged him to undertake that Expedition, I shall give a brief Account of the Life and Actions of this Famous Conqueror, who of late has made so much Noise in the World, which I had from a Gentleman who knew him personally, and was in Persia during the Time of the Great Revolution which happened there; that is, from the Time the Afghans invaded Persia, and Mahmud Khan, the Son of Mir Vaez, took the Capital thereof Isfahan, making Shah Sultan Houssein Prisoner, with all his Sons, which were Twenty-three, excepting Thamas Mirza (afterwards Shah Thamas, who made his Escape during the Siege) until Nadir Shah set out for Kandahar to reduce to Obedience Houssein Khan, a Brother of the said Mahmud Khan.

NADIR SHAH.

NADIR SHAH †, known in Europe by the Name of Kuli Khan, was born at Cabot in the Province of Khorasan. || His Father was Chief

† His first Name was نادر قلی Nadir Kuli, which signifies, God's Slave, or literally, the Slave of the Wonderful. It is composed of نادر Nadir, wonderful, which, with the Mahomedans, is one of God's Attributes, and قلی Kuli, which, in the Turkish Language, signifies Slave. In this Manner the Arabs, and other Mahomedans, compose most of their proper Names, by prefixing the Word عبد Abd, Slave, to God's Name, or any of his Attributes, thus: عبد الله Abdallah, the Slave of God, عبد الرحمن Abd o' Rahman, the Slave of the Merciful, &c.

|| Khorasan is one of the most eastern Provinces of Persia, which its Name imports, signifying, towards the Chief of a Clan of the Afshar * Tribes and Governor of a Fortrefs belonging to that Place, wherein a fufficient Guard was kept to prevent the Oufbeg Tartars from making Incurfions into Khorafan. It commanded one of the Paffes, and was fo fituated by Nature that a Handful of Men might eafily defend it againft a numerous Army. The Father of Nadir Kuli (for that was his firft Name) dying during his Minority, his Uncle took the Command of that Fortrefs, which had been Hereditary in the Family for many Years, under Pretence of keeping it until Nadir Kuli was of Age; but when he was grown up, the Uncle pretended he was ftill too young to take fuch a Charge; and infinuated to the Clan, he was a Youth of a fierce and tyrannical Difpofition, not fit to command them, unlefs, inftead

The Persians generally pronounce it Khorafan, making an a, before an m, or an n, found like an u, which, they think, gives the Words a fweeter and fofter Sound. But in Tartary, and all over the Moghol's Empire, the Words are pronounced as they are wrote.

of mild Treatment, they chose to be sway'd with a Rod of Iron. The Affbars being well satisfied with the Uncle, desired him to continue their Chief, declaring that as they already had sufficient Experience of his Capacity and Humanity, they would not run any Risque by submitting to his Nephew. Nadir Kuli being thus thrust out of his Right by the Cunning of his Uncle, and being of too great a Spirit to live in a State of Subserviency among his Relations, went to Mushad,* a City famous for the Sepulchre of Imam Ali Reza, and there enter'd into the Beglerbeg's† Service, as one of the under Masters of Ceremonies; in which Office he behaved so well, that the Prince soon gave him the Command of a Troop of Horse. In the frequent Skirmishes he had with the Tartars he gave such Proofs of his Conduct and Courage, that in a few Years he was made Mîm Bashi, or Commander of 1000 Horse,

* Mushad is a City in Khorassan, which, since Shah Abasi's Intention of making it a Place of Pilgrimage, has been of more Note than Herat, the ancient Capital thereof.

† Beglerbeg is a Title signifying, in the Turkish Language, Lord of Lords.

in which Station he continued till he was about thirty-two Years of Age, behaving on all Occasions with the greatest Gallantry and Resolution. He was esteemed and respected by those whom he chose to be familiar with; but others who were not so intimate with him, and to whom he behaved with Reserve, made little Account of him. He so well disguised his Ambition, that, altho' determined to push his Fortune to the utmost, when a proper Opportunity should offer, he took the greatest Care to smother whatever might give the least Jealousy or Offence to his Superiors, seeming perfectly happy in the Station he had obtained, until the Year 1720, when the Ousbeg Tartars, by Surprise, entered Khorasan with a Body of 12000 Horse, and began to commit Hostilities. The Beglerbeg not having above 4000 Horse, and 2000 Foot in Readiness to march against them, called a Council of his Officers, and told them if an immediate Stop was not put to the Progress of the Tartars, they would lay waste and plunder the whole Province, and, according to their Custom, carry off Man, Woman, and Child, with every Thing of Value they could lay their Hands on; in Consequence of which he must lose his Head. The General Officers declared the Force his Highness could then muster was not near sufficient to encounter the Enemy with any Probability of Success, and that the King would blame him should he attempt it, and thereby only throw away the Lives of so many brave Men. The Beglerbeg perceiving their timorous Disposition, declared he would put himself at the Head of what Troops he had, and try his Fortune, it being better to run any Hazard than sit down tamely, and be idle Spectators, while the Tartars ravaged the Country, and carried away the Inhabitants to a perpetual Slavery. Nadir Kuli, who was present at this Council, (but whose Station did not entitle him to speak until the Opinion of those of the same Rank was asked) got up, and desired that he might be indulged to offer something on this Occasion: Which being granted, he said, It was then no Time to deliberate; that the Enemy were advancing towards them, and in a few Days would force the Generals to do what at present they seem'd to have no Inclination to; that he could not enough commend the brave Resolution of the Prince in offering to go in Person, and give them Battle; tho' at the same Time, there was no Necessity for His Highness to run so great a Risk, since if any Accident happened to him, the whole Province would be lost; that it would be more advisable to remain in the City Musad to take Care thereof with what Forces he could gather from the adjacent Parts, and let the Army set out immediately, in order to give the Enemy Battle, or to secure some Defiles and narrow Passes to prevent the Tartars advancing until his Highness could send Succours: That, for his Part, he assured him he was, by Experience, so well satisfied of the Bravery of the Troops they then had, that if he would honour him with the Command of this Expedition, he was so well assured of Success, that in Case he miscarried he was willing to forfeit his Head. The Prince was so pleased with an Offer of this Kind, that he did not wait for any of the Generals Opinions; but immediately told him, You have, in your present Station, when Occasion offered, given such Proofs of your Conduct and personal Valour, as leaves me no Room to doubt of your future Behaviour; I do therefore therefore give you the Title of General, with the Command of all the Troops now here, and direct you to march with them, as soon as possible, against the Tartars, and either give them Battle, or take such Measures as may seem to you most proper, in order to put a Check to their Progress. Accordingly a Commission pro tempore was prepared and signed for Nadir Kuli to command in this Expedition as General, and the Prince assured him, if he succeeded, he would use all his Interest at Court to get him confirmed. Altho' the Common-Soldiers were well satisfied to have Nadir Kuli to command them, yet all the General Officers, and most of the Mim Bashi, his Seniors, refused to act under him, which the Prince being informed of, desired they would stay with him, and that others, whom Nadir Kuli appointed, should act in their Stead. Accordingly several Officers were promoted in order to supply the Places of those who staid; and the Troops set out with Nadir Kuli at their Head, with the same Resolution that he did, to conquer or die. The Tartar General, who lay about four Days Journey from Muskod, hearing the Persians were in quest of them, called called together all his Forces, who were out a marauding in different Parts. Nadir, who bent his March directly towards him, on his Arrival, found the Tartar at the Head of his Troops ready to give him Battle; upon which he drew up his little Army on an Eminence, and told them, that half the Tartars at least were a foraging, and left to guard the Captives and Plunder; that he was assured they had not above 6 or 7000 Men, tho' they were drawn up loose in order to make the greater Show; and that he should not doubt of Victory had they been twice as numerous, from the Experience he often had of their Courage on other Occasions, which he was assured they would then exert to the utmost, as thereon entirely depended the Lives, Liberties, and Estates of their Countrymen. The Tartars charged with their usual Fury, which the Persians, animated by the Example of their young Leader, sustained with all the Intrepidity imaginable. Both Parties being brave, and equally resolute, a bloody and obstinate Action ensued, in which the Victory for a long Time seemed doubtful: At last Nadir's Fortune prevailed; for having slain the General with his own Hand, the Tartars were immediately put to Flight, the Perfians pursuing and slaughtering them for several Miles. In this Battle upwards of 6000 Tartars were killed, and of the Remainder not half returned to their own Country, being either killed or taken Prisoners by the Peasants.

This Victory gained Nadir Kuli immortal Honour; and the Beglerbeg assured him, on his Arrival at Mushad, that he had wrote to the King to make him General under him, that is, Lieutenant General of Khorasan. But Shah Sultan Hossein, who was then King of Persia, being a weak and indolent Prince, never regarded the Services Nadir had done him, but appointed in that very Post, which he ought to have, a young Nobleman who had never seen any Action. This Affair was managed by the great Interest the other General Officers had at Court, who (tho' afraid to undertake it themselves) were highly chagrined at Nadir Kuli's having had the Command of the Tartar Expedition: The King's Weakness giving them a fair Opportunity of indulging their Resentment, by procuring the Disgrace of this brave Man, who had no Friends at Court to solicit for him,

Being

Being highly incensed at this Treatment, he waited on the Prince, and told him, he had depended on his Promise to re-Propose, for instead of being confirmed in his Post, he was degraded and disgraced for his good Services, and a young Fellow appointed to Command the Army, who was only fit to be shut up in a Scraglio with Women; that he observed, he was a Person nearly related to his Highness, whence he concluded he was raised to that Station by the very Interest promised him: The Prince assured him of the contrary, and as he had endeavoured to serve him, was highly displeased at his daring to tax him with a Breach of Promise. Nadir, by insisting on what he had said, and dropping some other unguarded Expressions, so far trespassed on the Prince's good Nature, that he ordered him to be bastinadoed on the Soles of the Feet, till his Toe-Nails dropt off, and turned him out of the Service. The Reader must not be surprized at this Sort of Punishment to a Field Officer, for it is frequently insisted on those in the highest Stations, if they incur the King's Displeasure, and all the Nobility are liable to undergo it, if they disobey the Commands

~~of these Superiors in a Post~~ subordinate to ~~himself~~ Nadir was now at adrift, and having no Requies at Court, had no Hopes of being re-instated; this made him turn his Thoughts On retiring to the Place of his Nativity, and endeavour to recover his paternal Inheritance.
 On his Arrival there, his Uncle received him very kindly, and he lived with him and his other Relations some Time; but on his endeavouring to recover the Command of the Tribe, by first insinuating privately, and then insisting upon it that it was his Right, his Uncle let him know he would not resign
 it, and treated him in a most contemptuous and slighting Manner. His other Relations did the same, which was Usage Nadir's high Spirit could not bear, notwithstanding the State of Poverty he was reduced to, which was so very hard, that he was forced to borrow small Matters of any that would lend him; to procure the common Necessaries of Life. This was enough to beget desperate Resolutions in a Man who had deserved great Things from his Prince and Country, for the good Services he had done them; instead of which, as I have already observed, he was degraded and punished: And when he fled into the Arms of his Relations for Relief, and claimed his Birth-right, found that withheld from him by his Uncle; and all those who, by Ties of Blood, ought to have been his Friends, turned his Enemies, for no other Reason that I could ever learn, but that they found him a bold enterprizing Man, and superior to themselves in Point of Genius and every other Respect. Nadir, in this melancholy Situation, determined to get that by Force, which he could not obtain by any other Method; and having associated with a Couple of stout Fellows of desperate Fortune, went upon the Highway, and robb'd a small Caravan of Three or Four Mules laden with Merchandize, and found Means to dispose of them, the Produce of which (setting aside what they wanted for present Expences) he laid out in Arms and Ammunition, and enlisted privately in his Gang all the desperate Fellows he could pick up. He set out a second Time with about 20 or 25, and robb'd a large Caravan of 30 Mules and Camels, laden with Merchandize and Provisions, which he carried to the Mountains, where Persons came secretly to him with Arms, &c. and exchanged them for Goods, much to their Advantage.

Advantage. In this Manner he frequently robb'd, traded, and enlisted fresh Men into his Gang, most of whom were Soldiers, who had formerly served under him, until he had got near 500 stout Fellows well mounted, with which Force he kept the Country in aw, and laid them under a Contribution, which they would not comply with, till he had first threatned, and afterwards performed his Resolution of carrying away their Cattle, and plundering and burning their Houses. But it will be proper here to take Notice, that he could not have reigned long in this Manner, but would have been pursued and overpower'd by the King's Forces, if the Empire had not been involved in War. The Afghans under Mir Vaez's Son, had taken Isfahan, and reduced the South-East Parts of Persia to their Obedience; the Turks had entered the Western Parts, and taken most of them; and the Muscovites had taken Possession of Gilan (the ancient Hyrcania) and other Places bordering on the Caspian Sea; so that Shah Tahmas having but two or three Provinces left, which were surrounded by Enemies on all Sides, he could not spare any Forces to reduce Nadir Kuli; the Country People were afraid to attack him, or so that he lived on them; and as he did not think it proper for the Support of himself and his Followers, at this Time, to unite with Sef-o-din Beg, and General In-Sheb-Elam's Army, and Chief of a great Tribe, called Ithi-Bayes, having offended the King, his Persian Majesty was determined to take away his Life, which Sef-o-din Beg being privately informed of, he fled from the Camp in the Night with 1500 of his own Men, and not knowing where to take Sanctuary, he went to Nadir-Kuli, and joined him. By this Addition to his Force, he had now got upwards of 2000 Men, and was become very formidable and expensive to the Neighbourhood. Nadir's Uncle began to dread the Strength of his Nephew, who being not above 100 Miles off, might come and attack him whenever he pleased. He therefore wrote him a Letter, wherein he assured him, he was of Opinion, that if he would submit, and go into the King's Service, his Majesty would grant a Pardon to him, and all his People. Nadir seemed very well pleased with this Proposal, and wrote his Uncle, that if he could procure the Pardon he mentioned, he should be glad to

to make profit. Accordingly, his Uncle sent a Pension to Shah Thani in behalf of his Nephew. His Majesty at first scorned not inclined to pardon a Man who had been guilty of such Notorious Crimes, but being told, the ill Treatment he had formerly met with forced him to take such Measures in order to support himself, that he was a gallant Officer and that his Troops might be of great Service to his Majesty, who was in want of such Men, the King comply'd, and sent a free Pardon signed to his Uncle, which he immediately forwarded to Nadir Kuli, who, upon the Receipt thereof, set out with Sef o'din Beg, and two chosen Men for Calat. On his Arrival there, his Uncle received him very kindly.
 Next Day he made a grand Entertainment for him and his Followers, which he intended to have continued for three Days, far from apprehending any Treachery from his Nephew, who now meditated Revenge for the Injury done him in withholding his Right, and slighting him when reduced to the greatest Necessity. He had concerted with his Followers how to put him in Execution before he got to the Mountains, and had ordered 500 more of his Men to set out the next Day after

The HISTORY of
 ter him, and to lay concealed near the Castle of Cabul, (which they might easily do, it being a mountainous Place.) Accordingly having that very Night made proper Preparations, about two in the Morning, at a Signal given those within, fell on the Centries, killed some, and seized the rest, whilst Nadir Kuli went to his Uncle's Chamber, whom having killed, he took the Keys of the Castle, and opened the Gates, in order to let in the 500 Men, who were ready at his Signal. His Uncle's Men, who were about 160, besides the Centries, had taken the Alarm; but Nadir's People having secured the Doors of the Barracks, where they lay, they could make no Resistance, so that they surrendered; and, being disarm'd, were set at Liberty the next Morning.
 There was not much Blood shed on this Occasion,
 not above fifteen or twenty being killed in all.
Nadir immediately dispatched Messengers to those remaining in the Mountains, who came to him in a few Days. This happened about the Year 1726-7, upwards of six Years after he had been turned out of the King's Service in Musnad, as before-mentioned.

Nadir, by this Action, not at all to his Credit, had gratified his Revenge on his Uncle,

Uncle, and had all his Relations (who lived mostly in the Town, and the adjacent Villages near Calcutta) in his Power; but he shew'd no Resentment to any of them. On the contrary, he treated them with Civility and Respect; several of them entered voluntarily into his Service, and are now with him in great Posts. He continued in this Place for some Months ruling in an absolute Manner, and raising Contributions, for fifty Miles round, to what Amount he pleas'd. Shah Thomas was fully apprized of all that Nadir had done, and was highly displeas'd at the ill Use he made of the Pardon sent him, which was to destroy his Uncle, and get Possession of a strong Place, whence nothing but a great Force could dislodge him; but as his Affairs were in a declining Condition, every Day seeming to threaten his Ruin more and more, being hemm'd in by the Turks on one Side, and the Afghans on the other, he judg'd it better to make use of the Rebel Nadir's Assistance, than to weaken his own Force by attempting to destroy him. He therefore let him know, if he would submit and come to him, he should be graciously received, and admitted into the Service as a

Mim

Mim Bashi, and that Sef o' din Beg should likewise be pardoned, and entertained in the same Station. Nadir accepted this Offer, and having left one of his own Officers, with 500 of his Men, to command the Castle, he set out with the rest, and waited on the King, who at first rebuked him for what he had done, but told him and his People, that he had forgiven them, and did not doubt but their future Behaviour would make Amends for their past Offences. Nadir excused himself as well as he could, by telling the King the ill Treatment he had met with from the Prince of Khorasan, in being turned out of the Service at a Time when he ought to have been rewarded for his successful Expedition against the Tartars; and that the injurious Usage he received from his Uncle and Relations had forced him into the Measures he had taken to support himself; but as his Majesty had now generously pardoned him, he should endeavour to render himself deserving of the Clemency which had been shewn him.

As he had now frequent Occasions, he signalized himself by his Courage and Conduct, and was the Admiration of the King and the whole Army. The Turks (who before Nadir coming into Shah Tahmasp's Army, who was always victorious, and seem'd determined to extirpate the Persian Race, and divide the Empire between the Afghans and themselves, with whom they had made Peace, and entered into an Alliance) were now frequently repulsed with Loss, tho' their Numbers were vastly superior to the Persians; and in all these Actions and Skirmishes, Nadir, tho' he had but an inferior Command, yet he shared the most Honour; till at length the King made him a Lieutenant-General, having removed two of his principal Officers to make Way for him. As Nadir had, by his Station, frequent Opportunities of waiting on the King, he soon insinuated himself into his Favour. He had but one Rival to contend with, who was of any Consequence, namely, Fateh-ullah Khan Kajar, with whom, in Appearance, he kept a strict Friendship; but the very Moment the King (being set on by his Creatures) had called that General to an Account for his Management, in Regard to the Army, Nadir Khan assured His Majesty he had been a long Time sensible of the Abuses committed, and unless there was a Reformation in the Manner of paying and disciplining the Army, the Troops would desert; that they already began to murmur at not receiving their Pay regularly, and complained of the exorbitant Deductions made out of it for Cloaths, &c. The King, on hearing this, was highly incensed against the General, and declared, if what was alledged against him was true, he would order his Head to be cut off. He having nothing to say in his own Justification, but pleading it as a Custom which his Predecessors had always done, His Majesty ordered him to be executed on the Spot, and appointed Nadir Kuli General, who readily accepted of it, without the Formality of desiring to be excused on Account of his Inability to acquit himself as he ought in such a Post. This was in the Year 1727-8, and not above one Year since he was pardoned, and taken into the King's Service. Nadir having obtained that high Station, began to display Talents vastly superior to what he had discovered hitherto, and the King had so great a Dependance on his Management, that he seldom or never interfered in any Thing relating to the Military. Nadir, being sensible of the Trust reposed in him, was resolved to improve prove it to his own Advantage, by removing those in the Army whom he had Reason to believe were not attached to him, and putting in those who were. He gain'd the Affection of the Common-Soldiers, by paying them with his own Hand the Moment he received the Money, and letting them have Cloaths at the first Cost. Finding himself in this happy Situation, he wished for nothing more than Action, but his Forces (being no more than 15 or 20000) were not sufficient to act offensively against the Turks :

 However, he annoyed them so much by Means of flying Parties, that they were glad to sit still in their Quarters ; they sent to acquaint Shah Thomas, that if he would relinquish to them the Right of those Places they had already in Possession, they would make Peace with him, and leave him to recover the rest of his Dominions from the Afghans.
Shah Thomas let them know he would consider of it, and desired a Truce till he could get an Answer from the Grand Signior to some Proposals he had to make him, to which the Turks agreed, promising to commit no Hostilities until they received Orders from the Port, and to their Confines were fixed to Hamadan on one Side, and Tabriz and Ardabil on the other. Shah Thamas was sent a Messenger to Constantinople with Offers of an Accommodation, but on Terms which he knew would not be granted, but gave private Orders to the said Messenger to pretend Sickness on the Road, and to delay his getting thither as long as possible, so as not to give the Turks any Cause of Suspicion. Shah Thamas's Design was only to gain Time, that he might go and subdue Meluck Mahmud, Governor of Mushad, who had rebelled during the late Revolution, and set up as King. Having, thro' the Bravery of his General Nadir, taken the said Governor Prisoner, and seized his Effects, he set out with 12000 Horse to chastise the Abdolles, a Tribe of Afghans, who had taken Possession of Herat in Shah Saltan Hossain's Time, and were now preparing a grand Army to invade Khorasan, and lay Siege to Mushad. The Abdolles Afghans met him about three Days Journey from Herat, with an Army of near 30000 Horse. As they were reckoned better Soldiers than the Kandabar Afghans, who had taken Isfahan, the King seem'd to dread the Event of the Battle; but Nadir, whose Courage was invincible, invincible; assured the King he did not doubt of Success; that Victory depended more on Resolution and Conduct than on Numbers, and that he was satisfied his Majesty's Troops had both. Having drawn up his Army in order of Battle, he harangued them in the same Manner, telling them withal, that the Loss of that Battle would be the Ruin of Persia, and that they and their Generations would be made Slaves for ever if they did not conquer that Day; after which a general Shout was given. The Abdallee Afghans, who were drawn up at some Distance, hearing their Shout, returned it, and advanced with great Fury to charge the Persians. Nadir kept his Men close, and being posted upon a rising Ground, he played upon them with some small Field-pieces, which did great Execution, not suffering any of his People to discharge their small Arms until the Enemy was within thirty or forty Yards, when they made a general Fire, which made such Havock among the Abdallees, that they were obliged to retire, and give the Persians Time to load again. In short, after several desperate Attacks, which the Persians sustain'd with an uncommon Valour, a general Engagement gement ensued, in which Nadir behaved with a most surprising Conduct; for, tho' his Personal Bravery naturally carried him too far, his Vigilance was such, that he always sent timely Assistance wherever it was required; at last, the Abdollees were entirely routed, 5000 were taken Prisoners, and near 15000 killed and wounded. The Loss on the Persians Side amounted to no more than 1500. After this he marched to Herat, and besieged it for some Months, until the Enemy submitted, and had agreed to pay down a certain Sum, and give an annual Tribute on Condition they might have a Governor appointed by the King out of their own Tribe; which being granted, they swore Obedience to Shah Thomas, by whom they were to be treated in future as natural Subjects. The King, who was in the Army, but did not command, set out for Mushad. Nadir Kuli having Orders to follow him as soon as possible, arrived there in August, 1729. About this Time the King received News that Askruff, the Afghan (who succeeded Mahmud, the Son of Mir Vaex, and was then in Possession of Isfahan) was preparing to come and attack him with a powerful Army,

Army. The said Asbruff, hearing of Nadir Kuli's Success, thought it dangerous to give such a Man Time to augment his Forces; he therefore determined to crush him in the Beginning: For which Purpose, having completed an Army of 30000 Men, he set out from Isfahan in September, 1729, and march'd towards Khorasan. This News alarmed Shah Thamas, and likewise his General Nadir; but, his Troops, being flush'd with their late Victory, seem'd eager to be led against the Enemy. He was glad to find them in this Disposition, especially as he had but little Hopes of raising any great Number of Recruits, few People caring to enlist as they knew they were immediately to enter upon a desperate Action; however, he augmented his Army to near 16000 Men, exclusive of the Troops left in Garrison: Having set out from Mushad, by slow Marches he came to a Place called Damgoon, where, posting himself advantageously, he waited the Enemy's Arrival. When Asbruff came there, finding Nadir Kuli so well situated, he was unwilling to attack him, but was over-ruled in Opinion by his Officers: They told him, that by his declining to come to Action, the Rumour would obtain a cheap Victory; as the Country People (on hearing the Afghans were afraid to encounter the Persians) would rebel, and stop all Provisions from coming to the Army. Ashraff then proposed to march directly to Mushtad without attacking Madr Kuli; which being rejected, the Signal was given for Battle. The Event convinced the Afghan Officers of their Error; for attacking them at that Disadvantage gave the Persians a compleat Victory. 'Tis true it cost them dear, having lost above 4000 Men. The Loss sustained by the Afghans was about 12000, among whom were some of their best Officers.

Enemy

After this Defeat Ashraff retired towards Isfahan, having scarcely a third Part of the Troops he set out with, a great Number of his Men (especially the Persians he had taken into his Service) having deserted after the Battle.

Shah Thomas, who was present in this Action, and an Eye-witness to the Conduct and Valour of his General, told him he had nothing to present him, worthy his Acceptance, but his own Name, and ordered that, for the future, he should be called Thomas Kuli

Kabul with the Addition of Khan, which signifies Lord.

Thomas Kuli Khan, (for so we shall call him until he is elected King) having refreshed his Troops at Dargana, marched towards Afghanistan. The Afghans, at his Approach, quitted several of their Garrisons, and fled towards the Capital, and in some Places the Persians cut them off, declaring openly for Shah Thomas, and sending to Kuli Khan what Supplies of Men and Money they could furnish; so that, by the Time he arrived at Cashan, which is four Days Journey from Isfahan, his Army consisted of 40000 Horse and Foot. The Afghans laid in great Stores of Provisions, and seem'd determined to defend themselves to the last Extremity; but their Leader Ashruff chose to try the Event of another Battle before he suffered himself to be besieged. Having brought together all the Forces he could muster, which amounted to no more than 30000, consisting of Afghans, Dargazis, Haxarris, Persians, &c.

* Thomas Kull, signifies Thomas's Slave. The greatest Honour a Persian King can confer on any Subject, is giving him Liberty to make use of his own Name, altho' it is only to signify, he is his Slave.

he marched out to a Place called Mourcha Kbor, which is about thirty English Miles from the City, and encamped there, waiting Kuli Khan's Arrival, which not being so soon as he expected, he had sufficient Time to exercise his Cruelty on the Persians in and about Isfahan: At first, he ordered all the principal Men to be cut off, and afterwards all they could find in the Streets; so that for the Space of twenty Days, there was not a Persian to be seen abroad, none appearing but Women, who came out to buy the common Necessaries of Life. At last, Kuli Khan arrived at Mourcha Kbor, where, engaging the Afghans, he obtained a compleat Victory, Asbruff having lost 7000 Men, retired to Isfahan, where, calling a Council, it was resolved, that all the Inhabitants should be slaughtered, and the Palace and other Houses set on Fire; which being done, they were to march off with all the Effects they could carry with them. Just as they were on the Point of executing this barbarous Resolution, those whom Asbruff had appointed to watch the Motions of Kuli Khan, sent to acquaint him, that the Persian Army was in full March towards the City. Upon which,

Asbruff

NADIR SHAH. 69

Nadir ordered his Men to come to the Palace and load their Beasts with Money (of which there was a great Quantity) and then follow him, as they could only save themselves by Flight. This Order was executed with so much Dispatch, that before two o'clock in the Afternoon there was scarce an Afghan to be seen in the City. The Peasants, who before lay concealed, came out, and began to plunder all Houses without Distinction; even the Peasants from the Outparts flocked in in great Numbers to have their Share of the Booty; but on the Arrival of 500 of Thamas Kuli Khan's Troops, all the Rabble disappeared, and the Officers took Possession of the Palace, and placed Guards at the City Gates. The next Day being November, 1730, he entered Isfahan with his whole Army, and continued there, robbing his Men, and dividing among them the Plunder recovered from the Inhabitants. It was a Matter of Surprize to most People that he did not pursue the Afghans; but in a few Days afterwards it appeared he had some private Reasons for it. For, on Shah Thamas's Arrival (which was three Weeks afterwards) he declared that unless his Majesty would give him the Power of leaving Money in all Parts for the Payment of the Army, he would decline the Command thereof, and return to his own Country, being well assured, that the Persons who should be ordered to supply him would be negligent, and by that Means frustrate all his Designs. The King was averse to this Proposal, and had Thoughts of removing him, but could fix on no other who was fit to supply his Place; having sounded some of the principal Officers, he found them of Opinion, that it was better to comply with Kuli Khan's Humour for the present, and shew a proper Resentment of his Insolence when there was less Occasion for his Service; adding, that the Soldiers, at this Juncture, would be unwilling to serve under any other General. At last, His Majesty consented, but with the greatest Reluctancy: For, in giving that Power, he (in Effect) parted with his Crown. He did not even stop here, but heaped more Honours upon him, appointing him Generalissimo and Beglerbeg of Khorasan, and giving him his Aunt in Marriage. After obtaining these Favours he seemed perfectly zealous for his Master's Service; and, in order to convince the World of his Sincerity, would set out with an Army in the Middle of Winter against the Afghans, who, finding the Persians did not pursue them, when they quitted Isfahan, had taken up their Winter Quarters at Shiraz, and plundered and ravaged that Part of the Country in a barbarous Manner.

Kuli Khan, thro' the Severity of the Season, had lost upwards of 3000 Men; but, as his March was to the Southward, the Weather grew daily more favourable. Having arrived near Shiraz, Asbruff and his Afghans marched out with a Resolution once more to try their Fortune in Battle; they fought desperately for some Hours, but at last were put to Flight, having left a great Part of their Treasure, and most of their Women and Children behind them. A strong Detachment of the Persians were sent in Pursuit of them, who made several of them Prisoners.

Asbruff, with about 1500 of his Men, marched directly towards Kandahar. In the Way most of them deserted him, having only 400 when he was surpriz'd and set upon by a Body of the Baluchies; with these few
he

he made a desperate and brave Defence, but being greatly overpowered, he and most of his Party were cut to Pieces.

Thamas Kuli Khan, having staid about a Month in Shiraz, set out for Hamadan, in order to recover it, with other Places formerly belonging to the Persians, which the Turks had seized on during the late Troubles. On his Arrival there, Abdallah Basta came against him with all his Forces, who, being worsted fled towards Carmanshab: Thamas Kuli pursued him thither, and defeated him a second Time. Having staid a few Days at Carmanshab, and fixed a Garrison there, he set out for Tabriz. As soon as he recovered and secured that important Place, he detached a strong Party to Ardebil, which the Enemy had quitted on their Approach. The Turks being thus unsuccessful demanded a Truce, which Thamas Kuli granted the more readily, as the Abdollees at Herat rebelled a second Time, and had a powerful Army in the Field.

Having secured, and left sufficient Garrisons in those Places he had lately recovered, he set out for Herat. After defeating the Abdollees Army, he laid Siege to the City, which which being a Place of great Strength, held out until Famine obliged them to surrender. He put the Governor and all the principal Men to Death, and having peopled the Place with Persians, and left a Garrison of his own Men therein, he marched to Musbad.

During this Time, Shah Thomas, who was at Isfahan, finding the Turks were sending Forces from Constantinople and other Parts towards the Frontiers of Persia, he raised an Army of 20000 Men, and set out for Tabriz, where, joining the Troops left there by Thomas Kuli, he marched to Eriwan, and defeating a Body of Turks, besieged the Castle, but not being able to supply his Army with Provisions there, he returned to Tabriz, and from thence intended to advance towards Carmanshah, but was prevented by Abmed Basba, who, coming against him with a superior Army, entirely defeated him. A few Days after this Battle, the Basba sent him Word, he was empowered by the Grand Signior to conclude a Peace with him. The King came readily into the Basba's Proposals, which were, that each Party should remain in Possession of what they had then got.

When

When Thomas Kuli Khan was informed of this Peace he was greatly enraged; and went to the King and several of the Nobility, acquainting them, he would soon wait on His Majesty, and convince him of the Necessity there was to break this scandalous Peace. Accordingly he set out with all Speed from Musnad, and in August, 1732. arrived at Esfahan with his whole Army, which amounted to upwards of 60000, all choice Troops. He waited on the King, and told him, He ought first to make an Example of those who, advised him to such dishonourable Measures, and then carry on the War with Vigour against the Enemy. The King seeming unwilling to break the Peace he had concluded with the Turks, Thomas Kuli Khan told him, he had good Reason to believe most of the Courtiers were his Enemies, and had been endeavouring to prevail with His Majesty to take away his Life. The King asserted his Informations were not true. Upon which Kuli Khan presented the King with a Bundle of Letters, telling him, these would convince his Majesty, that he had just Grounds for his Apprehensions. After which he took his Leave.

These

These Letters had been wrote to him privately by Agents of the Nobility at Court, in which they informed against each other, and acquainted him with their Designs against him. They also let him know what had passed in several Conversations with the King; at the same time reflecting on his Majesty's Incapacity, and assuring Kuli Khan how much they had his Interest at Heart.

The King was astonished when he perused these Letters, and finding the Treason too general to be taken any notice of, unless he resolved to cut off the greatest Part of the Nobility, he destroyed the Letters, being determined to wait for a more convenient Opportunity of restoring their Villainy.

Thomas Kuli Khan, who with his Army lay encamped without the City, waited to know what Effect these Letters would have on the King; but finding he took no Notice of them, he consulted with the Chiefs of his Army, and acquainted them with the Steps he had taken. They agreed with him in Opinion, that the King's Intention was to destroy him and his Friends, and disband the Army; and that the late shameful Peace concluded with the Turks was chiefly with a View of having more Leisure and Opportunity to accomplish his Designs. Kuli Khan told them, the only Expedient to save them and himself, would be to depose the King, and set up his Son in his Stead ; by which Means they should have a fair Pretence of making a Rupture with the Ottoman Porte : His Officers came readily into this Scheme, which was executed in the following manner :

Kuli Khan invited the King to a Review of the Army ; he accordingly went, and was exceedingly delighted with the fine Appearance they made, and the Performance of their Exercise, the Merit of which he publicly attributed to the General. As the King was riding thro' the Ranks, some of the Under-officers and Soldiers said aloud, " If your Majesty has any Commands, we are ready to execute them." This at first surprised Kuli Khan, but on recovering himself, he, with his usual Presence of Mind, addressed the King, desiring him to tell them they were to obey their General Thamas Kuli Khan, to whom he had given the sole Command of the Army ; which his Majesty complied with, and then went to a Banquet which had been prepared for him in the General's neral's Tent. The King having indulged too freely in drinking Wine, (which 'tis supposed was mixed with some intoxicating Drug) he fell asleep on his Sofa, The General ordered his own People to carry him to a Seraglio in the Garden of Hazar Jerib. His Majesty's Servants who were then in Waiting, seeming to dispute Kuli Khan's Orders, by telling him, they would take Care of the King, were commanded to withdraw at their Peril; upon which they endeavoured to make their Escape, but were seized by the Guards, and confined.

After Kuli Khan had secured the King, and placed Guards over him, he returned to his Tent, where most of the General Officers, who had been present at this Scene, were attending. He asked them, what was to be done further with the King? They replied, Nothing more than what is already done: But he soon persuaded them it would be necessary to keep him confined in some remote Part of the Empire: and accordingly three Days afterwards he was sent to Mazandran, attended by a Guard of 6000 Men, among whom were very few Persian Troops, being chiefly upon the east ends of the Great Wall Region. In 1644, the Tartars, who had been driven out of the North, returned, and seized the King.

After seizing the King, he sent a strong Detachment to the City, to take Possession of the Palace, and place Guards at the City Gates, and in some of the principal Streets.

Early next Morning it was proclaimed by Beat of Drum, that no Persons, on Pain of Death, should stir out of their Houses: At Noon finding every thing was quiet and easy,

a second Proclamation was made, ordering all People to carry on their Business and several Occupations, and go abroad, as usual.

The Persians made secretly great Lamentations, imagining their King was killed; but being informed he was alive, they flattered themselves with Hopes that the Army would rise in his Defence,

Next Day after the King was sent away,
Khai Khan went to the Palace in great Pomp, attended by all the Officers both Civil and Military. He ordered the King's Son to be brought out of the Seraglio, who being then in his Cradle, was placed on the Throne, the Royal Diadem was put on his Head, and the Sword and Target fixed to the Side thereof.

after which, with the proper Ceremony, he was declared King, by the Name of Shah Shahr the Third. Mir Khan first swore Fidelity to him on the Koran, and the rest followed his Example.

This Mock Ceremony being over, he continued in the Palace until he had appointed proper Officers in the City, and removed those Governors of distant Provinces whom he did not care to confide in. Afterwards he set out with his Forces against the Turks, and meeting Ahmed Pasha at the Head of a numerous Army, within a few Days Journey of Baghdad, he entirely defeated him, and marched towards the City, which he laid close Siege to. The Garrison being very numerous, defended in a long time, but a terrible Famine raging among them, they were on the Point of surrendering, when Topal Osman Pasha, Siraskian, and several other Pashas came with an Army, which, including Servants, &c. was upwards of 20,000 Men. Having advanced near Baghdad, they obliged Shamshad Khan to raise the Siege, and give some Battle. The Pasha's Army, which then consisted of 12,000 Men, charged so furiously, and seconded their Attacks with so much Vigour, gone, that the Turks were just on the Point of giving Way, when Kuli Khan's Horse was shot under him. Having fought some time on Foot, before he could get re-mounted, his Standard-bearer concluded he was killed, and rode off with the Colours. This alarmed the whole Army, who instantly faced about and fled. Kuli Khan endeavoured to rally them, but to no Purpose; the Turks pursuing with great Fury, made a terrible Slaughter of them: The Persians lost in this Action upwards of 60000 Men, and the Turks nigh as many.

This Defeat would have discouraged any but Kuli Khan, who had a Soul superior to all Misfortunes. He stopped at Hamadan, where in a few Days most of the Troops who were dispersed joined him. He told them he had certain Intelligence the Turks had given over Pursuit, and had divided their vast Army into lesser Parties, for the Convenience of foraging and getting Provisions, of which they were in great Want: That he was determin'd to go and attack 'em, one Party after another, and either conquer or die, since after what had been already done they could expect no Mercy from their Country, to which they must must never return, but in Triumph. And should they give the Turks any Time to refresh and unite their Troops, they would certainly be an Overmatch for them. His Officers being entirely of the same Opinion, he marched back with great Expedition, and fell upon the first Party of the Turks, who, imagining him to be at a great Distance, were not prepared to receive him. Having successively beat three considerable Bodies of them, he at last encounter'd Topal Othman Basha, at the Head of 60000 Men, who being shot in the beginning of the Action, his whole Army was soon routed, and put to Flight.

Since this Battle the Turks have not appeared in the Field against him, but suffered him for two Years successively to take one Place after another, some by Storm, and others by Capitulation, till he had recovered all the Territories they had seized during the late Troubles.

This unexpected Success had greatly raised his Reputation, and Volunteers came from all Quarters to offer him their Service. Having compleated a choice Army, he marched a second Time to besiege Baghdad.
When

When the Siege was pressing, he received News, that Mahomed Khan Ballache, one of his Generals, had rebelled, and proclaimed Shah Thomas King; that he had taken the City of Sheran, and had an Army of 30000 Men, which increased daily: Whereupon Kuli Khan immediately raised the Siege, and marching with all Expedition against the Rebels, was upon them when they least expected him. Upon the first Report of his Troops being near, they marched out to attack them, imagining it was only a small Detachment under the Command of one of his Officers, but they had not advanced above 20 Miles, before they met him at the Head of his Van-Guard, which consisted of 12000 Men. Mahomed Khan Ballache being overjoy'd to find him attended by so few, told his Officers, that Fortune had delivered Thomas Kuli Khan into their Hands; that they might easily defeat him, before he could have any Succours, as his main Army was a Days Journey behind: But when they approached each other, and heard Kuli Khan thundering out his Orders, they were struck with such a Panic, that they fled, without sustaining his first Attack.

Abbas Mahomed Khan Balluch, who was personally brave, having singled out Kuli Khan, rode full Speed towards him; being repulsed, he fought his Way back again, and intended to make his Escape, by crossing the Gulf of Persia in an Arab Vessel; but those treacherous People seized him, and, in hopes of a Reward, carried him to Thomas Kuli Khan, who sent him to Prison, in order to force him into a Confession of his Accomplices, and what Treasure and Effects he had. In this he was disappointed, for the Moment Mahomed Khan Balluch was left alone, he hanged himself. They could find no Papers that gave any Account of the Persons he corresponded with, or where his Effects (which were very considerable) had been deposited. Thus ended this brave Man, who was deservedly esteemed for several good Qualities; he was as great (tho' not so fortunate) a Soldier, as any in the East, and judged to be the best Horseman in Persia.

Thomas Kuli Khan staid a few Days in Shiraz, being employed in putting to Death some of the principal Persons concerned in the Rebellion, and seizing their Effects. He afterwards returned to Isfahan, where settling some Affairs, he set out for Georgia, and took the Capital Teflis by Storm, upon which the whole Country submitted to him; from thence he marched to Ertivan, the Capital of Armenia, which having recovered, he afterwards took Shamakhi by Capitulation, and Ganja by Storm. In the mean Time, he sent a Messenger to the Russians to relinquish Gilan and the Silk Countries, according to their Promise, otherwise he should be obliged to pay them a Visit; as they had no Inclination to enter into a War with him, they evacuated all the Places on this Side the Caspian Sea, except Derbend and Bachu, which he had given up to them. Upon this he concluded a firm Peace with them, and not long after made a Peace with the Turks.

Having thus settled Affairs in Regard to those two Powers, he sent a general Edict to all the Rulers of Provinces, Chiefs of Tribes, and Governors of Cities and Towns, commanding them to meet him on a certain Day in the Plains of Chuli Mogham, on Pain of high Displeasure. At the Time appointed they appeared, to the Number of 6000 and upwards, at the said Place, where they found him encamp'd with an Army of 150000 Men.

Men. Thomas Kuli Khan, ordering them to appear before him, he told them, the Reason of calling them together was to acquaint them that he had now subdued all the Enemies of the Persian Empire, except the Kandahar Afghans, whom he was determined to march against very soon; that, after he had reduced them to Obedience, he intended to retire, and end the Remainder of his Days in Peace and Tranquility, unless his Country should again require his Service; that he had made Peace with the Turks and Muscovites, and chastised the Tartars, and other Enemies on the Frontiers, in such a Manner, that (in all Probability) they would remain quiet for a long Time, so that it only remained with them to elect a King, either Shah Thomas their late Sovereign, or any other whom they judged the most capable; adding, that he expected their Answer in three Days. After this he retired to his Tent, and gave Orders that the said Assembly should be entertained at the public Expence, during their Stay in the Camp. In the mean Time, Kuli Khan's Creatures took Care to intimate to the principal Persons, that they ought to compliment their Regent and General with an Offer of the Crown, tho' at the same Time, they were certain he would not accept of it. When the Time was expired, they waited on him with an Address, in which, after setting forth the signal Service he had done to his Country, they begg'd he would accept of the Crown, and take the Charge of the Empire upon him; and that they (as faithful Subjects) would assist him on all Occasions with their Lives and Fortunes. Thomas Knollys told them, that he thank'd them for the Honour they had done him, which was contrary to his Intention in calling them together, yet as he looked upon the Voice of the People to be the Voice of God, he must submit to the Cares of a Crown, and sacrifice his own Ease to the public Good, not doubting but (by the Blessing of the Almighty, and their unanimous Concurrence) he should raise the Perſian Nation to as great a Pitch of Glory as any of their former Kings had done. And, in order to set out right, and have a perfect Understanding with them, he should require three Things to be solemnly confirmed by them:

I. That they should make the Crown Hereditary to his Heirs for ever.

II. That

N A D E R T S H A H. 1791

III. That the one, on Pain of Death, and Confiscation of Effects, should presume to take up Arms in Favour of the late Royal Family, or any Branch thereof, on any Pretence whatever, nor so much as mention any Thing tending to Rebellion.

III. That, as great Disturbances and Mischiefs had always arose between them and their Neighbours, the Turks, Indians, and Tatars, on Account of the Difference of Religion, he desired a Number of the Religious of both Sects might assemble to consider of, and resolve upon, an Uniformity; adding, that as the Points in which the Sunnis and *Schias differed were not very essen-

The Schias are they who dispute the Lawfulness of the Succession of Abubackr, Aumar, and Othman, and maintain that Mortisa Ali (according to the Prophet's Will) ought immediately to succeed him. tial, he was of Opinion an Accommodation might be easily effected.

The Grantees came readily into the two first Articles, but as to the two last they desired he would first hear what the Mullah-Bashi (or High-Priest) had to offer on that Head before they should subscribe to it. Accordingly the High-Priest addressed him, and said, 'As to Matters of Religion we have the Law of God, and the Traditions of his Prophet Mahommed to direct us, it is not for Princes to make Innovations therein, and therefore I humbly hope your Majesty will not begin your Reign with attempting to overthrow the established Religion, as a Step of that Nature must be attended with dangerous Consequences.' Then Kuli Khan immediately ordered him to be strangled, to prevent the People from attempting to second his Discourse, which they would certainly have done, if this sudden Execution had not deterred them from it. He then asked the People whether they would subscribe, and take Oaths to what he had proposed; which they tamely and readily submitted to. The next Day, being March 1735-6. he was proclaimed Emperor of Persia, by the Name of Nadir bitter Enemies, for cutting off the Mullah Bafhi, and for the Alteration they found he was determined to make in Religion ; but, in order to prevent their being able to do him any Injury, he sent for the Chiefs of them, and asked in what Manner they employed the vast Revenues they had. They told him that they apply'd them to the religious Purposes for which they were intended, such as Salaries for Priests, the Maintenance of Colleges, and a great Number of Mosques in which Prayers were daily and hourly offered up for Success to the Arms of their Prince, and Prosperity to the Empire of Persia. He told them, that by Experience it was evident their Prayers had not been heard, since for fifty Years past the Nation had been on the Decline, and at last almost ruined by Invasions and Rebellions, until God's victorious Instruments (meaning his Army) had come to its Relief, who were now ready to sacrifice their Lives for the Defence and Glory thereof ; that these poor Priests (pointing to his Soldiers) were in Want, and must be supply'd by some Means or other ; that therefore it was his Royal Pleasure, that the greatest Part of the Church Lands and Revenues should be confiscated and appropriated towards paying the Army; which was accordingly done, and by an exact Computation found to amount to near 1,000,000 Tumans, which is about 3,000,000 l. per Annum. The Priests were highly enraged at this Treatment, and did all they could to stir up the Army and People against him; the former, being above half Sunnis, only laughed at them, and the latter, when they considered that by this they were to be eased of a Part of the Taxes, were not dissatisfy'd with it. After this Melli Khan sent for the Chiefs of the People, and, acquainting them with what he had done, told them, if they wanted Priests, they must provide them at their own Expence; that, for his Part, having little Occasion for any, he would be at no Charge about them. He then published an Edict (of which the following is a literal Translation) ordering all his Subjects to conform to the Sunni Religion, on Pain of his Royal Displeasure.

This Edict was received with great Joy by Numbers of his Subjects, as many being secretly of that Persuasion, as of the Sebia established Religion; it was particularly agreeable to his Soldiers, who being chiefly Sunnis, became thereby the more attach'd to him.
However impolitic these Steps might have seem'd at first, yet it was the only Method he could have thought of in order to establish himself and his Heirs on the Throne of Persia; besides the Advantages it already has and may still give him in his future Designs on his Neighbours, who are of the same Religion which he has now established in Persia.

Shortly after he was elected and proclaimed King, he went to the City of Kazvin
(or Kashin) where the Ceremony of Inauguration of the Persian Monarchs is performed.
Having girt on the Royal Soymitar, and put the Imperial Crown on his Head, he took the usual Oath, which is, To govern the People according to the Laws of God, as re-revealed by his Prephet Mahommed, and protect and defend them against all their Enemies.

After this, he marched with his Army to Isfahan, where he continued some Time, making Preparations for his Expedition to Kandabar. During his Stay there, he received the Compliments of the neighbouring Powers: The Grand Signior and Moghol acknowledged him as Emperor of Persia, and at the same congratulated him on having established the true Orthodox Religion in his Empire, and discouraged the former Herefy.

In December, 1736, Nadir Shah set out from Isfahan, with an Army of upwards of 80000, chiefly Horse, and marched towards Kandabar, by the Way of Carmania, and was shortly after follow'd by Thomas Khan Vakeel with about 40000 more.

What happened after this, the Gentleman who favoured me with the above Memoirs is a Stranger to; excepting that on his Departure from Persia to India, which was in February, 1736-7, he heard Nadir Shah had besieged Kandahar. His Transactions since that Time, I shall continue as translated from some Persian Manuscripts,

NADIR SHAH. 129

Manuscripts, which I have mentioned in the Preface.

The same Gentleman has also favoured me with a personal Description and Character of this great Heroe, which I shall reserve for the Conclusion of these Sheets.

Nadir Shah, having securely established himself, and settled his Affairs in Persia, he left his Son Reza Kuli, Mirza to command there, and set out with his Army towards Kandabar. Hossein Khan, the Governor thereof, having laid up great Stores of Provisions and Ammunition, held out for 18 Months; at last, being reduced to Straits, he sallied out with his Men, most of whom died bravely fighting. Hossein Khan and his Son being taken Prisoners, the Persians entered the Castle, and took Possession thereof.

While Nadir Shah was busy in securing and fortifying Kandabar, and bringing over to him the Zemidars of those Parts, Letters came from Nizam al Muluck and Saadit Khan, inviting him to march towards Hindostan. In Answer to which, he objected the Difficulties of getting thro' the Defiles, passing the great Rivers, and the many Encounters he must expect to have with the Afghans, and the warlike Nations of those Parts, the Opposition he must expect from Nazir Khan, Subahdar of Cabul, and Zekaria Khan, Ruler of Lahor; and, last of all (should his Fortune surmount all these) his Fate will depend on his Success against a powerful Imperial Army. They soon satisfied him how unnecessary his Fears were, and that, before he cross'd the Atak *, he should have a Proof how able they were, and how much inclined to facilitate his Passage. Being encouraged by those Representations, he set out with an Army of 125,000 Horse, Kuzzlebashs, Georgians, Turks, Khorasanis, Balkhis, &c. all inured to Fatigues and Hardships; they were well provided for this Expedition, and greatly encouraged thereto by the Hopes he gave them, of not only enriching themselves, but bringing Wealth and Glory to their impoverished Country, by the Plunder of India. In

* Atak is the Name of a River, that separates the Province of Lahor from Peishor. There is but one Place where an Army can conveniently be transported, the Stream being so rapid in most Parts. There is a Castle commanding that Passage, called the Castle of Atak.

the mean Time, Nazim al Malick and Sabir Khan used all their Endeavours secretly to promote his Interest, and wrote to Sherzib Khan †, Governor of the Castle of Cabal, and Naçir Khan, Soubabdar of that Province (who was a Creature of Khanahran's) as also to Zekaria Khan, Ruler of the Province of Lahor, to this Purport: ‘Nadir Shah, being thoroughly informed of the State of Affairs in India, and that his Imperial Majesty and favourite Courtiers employ their Time in Wine and Women, has come to a Resolution to strike a Blow at this Empire. You well know that none of the great Ones here are fit to take the Field, much less to resist a Man who is conducted by Fortune. As this is the Case, you can have little Hopes of Assistance from hence; the best you can do will be to behave discreetly, and save yourselves.’ These Letters cooled them pretty much, and had Nadir Shab, Having subdued Chandrud and Ghokhavi, and gathering them with his own People, came to Cabul and besieged it. Mab gir Khan (before his Arrival) had Isfahan and marched to Paisfor; but Sharkish Khan defended both the City and Castle for 6 Weeks with the utmost Bravery, and wrote repeatedly to Nadir Khan, and to Court for Assistance; but none coming, both City and Castle were at last taken by Storm, and he and his Son were put to Death. Nadir Shab found Treasure, Jewels, Arms, &c. to a great Value; which, since the Great Moghol Babr's Time, had been shut up in Vaults. When the Taking of Cabul was known at Court, the Emperor gave Orders to get his Troops in Readiness, and provide all Things necessary for taking the Field. As Rajab Jeylag was more attached to Khandoran than to any of the other Omras, he repeatedly wrote to him to this Purport: ' Nadir Shab's Coming is a concerted Thing. You must

' be watchful over the Moghol Omras †, who ' seem to be united in order to compass some ' treacherous Design. Nasir Khan and Sher-
' az Khan have always been supported by ' the Court; one has sacrificed his Life to ' his Interest, and the other (afraid of his ' Life) has fled to Peishor. If Zekaria Khan,
' Ruler of Labor, makes any Opposition, it
' will give the Emperor's Army Time to ad' vance pretty far, in order to check this In-' vader; as for us Rajpouts we are ready to ' join the Royal Ensigns.

Khandaren knowing him to be well-affected, represented this to the Emperor, and told him, it would be very imprudent in him to leave the Capital; and take the Field.
However, it was at last agreed, that the Army should march to Labor, that the Emperor should accompany it so far, and that from thence it should proceed towards Cabul, under the Command of Nizam al Muluck,
and the other two Omras; for which Purpose,

stinction, call Moghols.

the Peishkhan * was ordered out to the Gardens of Shalimar; but after it was sent thither, to every Body's Surprise, Khandoran came back to the Palace, and delayed the March, whereas Nizam seemed to be for hastening it all in his Power. The Emperor's Servants, who knew Khandoran to be attached to their Master, contrived all the Impediments they could think of, so that Nadir Shah had not only Time to secure Cabul, but was far advanced in his March to Peishbor †, where the Afghans and Mountaineers very much incommoded him, and kept him in Play for Seven Weeks; in which Time he had a great many Men wounded and killed. Seeing there was no forcing the Passes, without much Bloodshed, and that the Afghans had fortified themselves on the Tops of the Hills; he sent them Offers of Accommodation, to which they came into the more readily, as the *Soubabdar*s had sent no Assistance; and that they had been four or five Years without receiving any of their usual Allowance † from Court : Upon Nadir Shah's paying them a certain Sum of Money, they not only let him pass unmolested, but several of them joined in his Army ; the other Aghans hearing of this, followed their Example. So, leaving the main Army behind, with 10000 chosen Horse of Kuzzlebash †, in seven Days he got to Peisher. Nazir Khan, who with 7000 Horse had incamped without the City, not imagining he could get through the Passes so soon, upon hearing of his Approach with so large a Body of Horse, was greatly perplexed; several of his Auxiliaries left him, and few besides the King's Men stood by him, who, after a brave Resistance were defeated,

After this Victory, he entered Pajtor and took Possession thereof. When the News of this Defeat came to Court, Nizam al Muluck, Khandoran, Kummir o'din Khan, and the other Omras, according to the King's Order, on the second of January, 1738-9, marched out with a numerous Army, a large Train of Artillery, and other warlike Necessaries, in order to oppose this Conqueror; and halted at the Gardens of Shalimar. Nizam, who was the Contriver of this Storm, endeavoured all he could to prepossess the Minds of the Soldiers with a Terror of Nadir Shah's Forces, and how vain it was to resist him; and, at the same Time, amused them to divert their going too far forward: But the King issued out Orders, that Nizam and the other Omras should advance with all Expedition, and himself intending to follow soon after them. Nizam al Muluck, and the rest, according to these Orders, marched on, and encamped in the Plains of Karnal, which is Fifty-Five Miles Cos * distant from Dehli. The Emperor also set out the 18 of January, 1738-9, and on the 4th of February joined them.

Nadir Shab having secured Peishor, and crossed the Arrok, marched directly towards Labor; Zekaria Khan, Soubabdar thereof, had (to Appearance) fortified the Place in the best Manner possible, and having entrenched himself without, seemed eager to engage the Enemy, but as soon as Nadir Shab's Troops came within Sight of the Intrenchments (having had his Lesson from Nizam ul Muluck) at a Signal given, he and all his Forces retreated to the Castle, from whence they cannonaded the Persians three Days, after which, having capitulated, one of the Conditions being that the City should be spared, a Thousand Kutzebash took Possession of the Castle, and Nadir Shab having staid one Week in the Gardens called Shalimar † of that City, he with his whole Army, by continued Marches, arrived at the Village Pillauri, which is near Karnal.

* The Cos mentioned here are short computed ones, this Place being no more than 26 measured Cos from Dehli.

Before I begin with the Journal of Nadir Shah's Transactions, after his Arrival at Karnal, I shall trouble the Reader with Translations of some genuine Letters, which having been wrote before the Persian Army crossed the Attok, I thought this the properest Place for inserting them.

A Translation of a Letter from Nadir Shah to Mahommed Shah, received the Beginning of Jumadi al avul 1151, which is about the Middle of August.

BE it clear to the enlightened Mind of your high Majesty, that my coming to Cabul, and possessing myself thereof, was purely out of Zeal for Islâm *, and Friendship for you. I never could have imagined, that the Wretches † of Deccan should impose a Tribute on the Dominions of the King of Mussulmen. My Stay on this Side the Attok is with a View, that, when these History ‖ is full of the Friendship that has subsisted between our Kings, and your Majesty's Predecessors. By Ali Mortisa, I swear, that (excepting Friendship, and a Concern for Religion) I neither had, nor have any other Views; if you suspect the contrary you may; I always was, and will be a Friend to your illustrious House.

About the latter End of August, an Ambassador came with another Letter, demanding four Crores of Rupees (5,000,000 l) and four Saubahs or Provinces.

The Province of Dehli, in particular, is called by this Name, but it is generally used to signify the whole Empire.

A Translation of a second Letter from the same Person, dated the 20th of Shaval, received the 8th of Zeccadin, 1151.

I Wrote you the 15th, with an Account of Affairs at Shahjehanabad and Lahor to that Date, and of the Omras being marched as far as Sonpur. On the 18th of this Month * arrived News, that Zakaria Khan (being wrote to so to do by Nadir Khan, Soubahdar of Cabul, now Nadir Shah's Vizir) sent Kefast Khan, one of his principal Officers, to Nadir Shah, who used him kindly, and presented him with Two Shauls; after some Conference, he sent his own Ambassador along with him to Zakaria Khan, who called the Ambassador into his General Divan, and to Appearance spoke very roughly to him, and at last confined him; after which, he marched out of the City to fight Nadir Shah's Army: When the Fight began, and one Discharge of the Cannon was made, as they were preparing a second, the Kuzzlebash and Georgians fell in among them with their Swords, and

A Journal of Nadir Shah's Transactions in India, translated from the Original Copy, wrote at Dehli, by Mirza Zaman, Secretary to Sirbullind Khan.

ON the 12th of Zeccadib§, the Royal Camp*, in Circuit about seven Cois, was pitched in the Fields of Karnal; it was surrounded with Mourchas†, on which were mounted near 5000 Carriage Guns, belonging to the Emperor and the Omras. In the Centre was the Emperor himself, and fronting him were Nizam al Muluck's and Saad o'din Khan's Mourchas, on which were mounted the Emperor's own Ordnance, attended by the Train belonging thereto: on the Right Hand were Kbandoran, Mazuffer Khan, Ali Hamed Khan, Mir Gullou, Shehdad Khan,

This same Day News was brought, that Majee Khan, *Nadir Shah's Kurul, had advanced as far as the Village Tillaupri (which is five Cois from hence) with a Party of 6000 Horse, all Courds: On the mult and Noise in the Camp, and most of the Tents and Effects of Kbandoran, Mazuf-fer Khan, Saadit Khan, &c. were plundered by their own People.

Amidst this Confusion the Emperor went towards Nizam al Muluck's Mourcha, who was in the Front, and in Conjunction with the Vizir and other Omras, went without the Mourchas, and drew up their Men in a Line of Battle, with a Design to put a Stop to the Enemies advancing any farther; but, had not the Night come on, these Precautions would have served them in little Stead, and that Day would have put an End to the whole Affair. About an Hour after Sun-set the Emperor returned back to his Tent.

Several of those who escaped out of the Field, as also those who attended the Baggage and Carriages, fled towards Debli; a great many of whom were killed and plundered in the Way.

The Camp in some Places was very thin of Men, infomuch that when at Midnight, the Emperor sent for Nizam al Muluck, the Space from his Moureba to the Emperor's Tent (which is about three Quarters of a Cos) was found entirely empty.

On the 16th†, finding the Camp so thin, and being apprehensive of the Kirghiz's attacking them, they contracted the Circuit thereof, and their Murghas into the Compass requisite to contain the Number of Troops they had left, which was the Space between the Emperor's Tent and Nizamat's Murgha, and there they stood under Arms the whole Day, every Minute expecting the Enemy's Approach. Towards the Evening a small Tent was pitched for the Emperor, and all the Troops were disposed of to their respective Posts, where they continued under Arms the whole Night, and their Horses saddled, without either Hay or Corn.

The 17th‡, also passed in Fear and Anxiety. This Day, according to an Order from Nadir Shah, Saadit Khan sent for his own Men and Baggage; some of them who

On the 18th †, Nizam al Muluck * and Asim Alla Khan went to accommodate Matters to Kadir Shah's Camp; after a Stay of six Hours, they returned back; what they might have done there, was kept a Secret. Towards the Close of the Evening, Khandoran died of the Wounds he had received.

On the 21st*, in the Morning, Nizam al Mubek, the Vizir, Azim Allah Khan, and Ghased o'din Khan, went to Nadir Shah: On their taking Leave to return, Nizam was honoured with a present of a Coat, Vest, and a Horse; the Vizir, Azim Allah Khan, and Ghased o'din Khan, each with a Coat and Vest; at nine o' Clock at Night, they waited on Abdoulmomed Shah, and communicated to him what had passed in their Conference, which was not made publick: That same Day the Emperor ordered 500 Beldars to bury the Corpses of those who fell in the Field of Battle, the Number of whom were found to be 17000, all of the Hindostan Army, and the

The Compass of Ground they covered in their March was five Cofs in Length and three in Breadth, and this Method was observed every Days March.

After five Days continual Marching they came to Sonput; there were several Villages in the Way which they not only plundered, but likewise killed a great many of the Inhabitants. Paniput and Sonput were also sack'd.

On Tuesday the 6th of Zelby†, they marched from Serpai, and came to Nirga. In the Beginning of the Night, Sirbullind Khan, having feign'd an Indisposition, had Leave to go before to the City, and on the Morning he arrived at his own House.

On Wednesday the 7th †, Nadir Shah arrived at the Gardens called Shallimán.

On Thursday the 8th ||, Mahommed Shah, by Nadir Shah's Order, being seated in a Royal Litter, with a Canopy and Umbrella, two Standards, about 200 Horse and Foot of his own Servants, and 4000 Kuzzlebasb Horsemen, entered the Castle. After which they gave him a Place near Aeysh Mabl *. Nadir Shah, having heard that the People of the City were of a seditious and turbulent Temper, did not care to enter in the Night Time. But this Morning, attended by 20,000 Horse, he marched with all the Caution imaginable to the Castle, leaving the rest of his Army encamped without the City.

After he had alighted, Mahmud Shah came to congratulate him, and they breakfasted together. They were in Conversation until the Evening, during which Time Nadir Shah behaved with the greatest Complaisance and seeming Affection to him. He issued out Orders in the most peremptory Manner to prevent the Soldiers wronging or insulting any of the Inhabitants, and enjoined the Nisf-Mahals, who have the Inspection of these Things, to spare no Punishments, such as cutting off Ears and Noses, and bamboozing to Death, whoever molested the Indians; for which Reason none of the Kuzzakbashi, either high or low, durst injure any of the Natives; but most of the People were so frighten'd at the terrible Aspect of these Men, and the barbarous Figure† they made, that they avoided (as much as possible) having any Dealings or Conversation with them.

After Sun-set they spread a Report that Nadir Shab was taken Prisoner, and some said he was poisoned, on which the Mob and Tumult exceeded all Bounds, all the idle Vagabond and disaffected People joining from all Quarters, with what Arms they could most readily find, poured like a Torrent towards the Castle. On Sunday the 11th †, about eight o'Clock in the Morning, when the Tumult was in its Height, Nadir Shab being highly provoked, walked out of the Castle, and mounting his Horse, went from thence towards Chandni Chok ‡, to quell the Mob, who were committing great Disorders in that Quarter, and in the Way perceiving a great many of the Bodies of his own People, who had been killed in the Night, he sent a strong Party to endeavour to suppress them, and in Case Threatning, and fair Means were ineffectual, he licensed them to cut them off, but on no Account to injure others who were

The Slaughter continued from eight in the Morning till three in the Afternoon; above 400 Kuzzlebash were killed, and of the Citizens (great and small) 120,000 were slaughtered, others computed them 150,000. What Treasure and Effects were plundered, some Nadir Shah had, and a great deal was destroyed by the Fire. In several of the Hindu Houses, where one of a Family survived, he used to pile thirty or forty Carcases a-top of one another, and burn them; and so they did in the Streets; notwithstanding which there still remained so many, that, for a considerable Time, there was no such Thing as passing any of those Ways. When the Slaughter began, those who raised the Commotion disappeared in an Instant, and left the innocent Shopkeepers, Bazars, and many honest Families, to be butchered by the enraged Kuzzlebas; several, jealous of their Honour, not only killed their Women, but laid also violent Hands upon themselves; one of these unfortunate Wretches, in particular, when the Soldiers came near his House, burnt about twenty Women of his Family, and was in Expectation of their entering every Minute and killing him; by Chance they missed that House; but he was so infatuated, that, finding himself disappointed, he went out, and, bringing some of them back, shewed them the Way to his own House, telling them there was a good deal of Money and Effects therein. After they had plundered his House, they went their Way without killing him, which so enraged him, that he dispatched himself. There were great Numbers of People, especially Women and Children, burnt in their Houses.

In short, by what passed at this Meeting, it was known, that Nadir Shah, after his Victory, and having established his Power, had demanded of Nizam at Muluck, twenty Crore† of Ruppes, (exclusive of the Jewels, Gold Plate set with precious Stones, and other fine Goods, seized of the Kings and other Omras) to be collected in the best Manner he could, out of the King's Treasury,

Such a Sum was not to be raised out of the King's Treasury, or the Omras Effects; for, in the King's, the Gold and Silver Coins did not exceed three Crors §. But, in the inward Vaults (which had been shut up and sealed for many Years, no Body knowing by whom they were sealed, or what they contained) there was found of Gold and Silver so a much larger Amount than the Money in the Treasury. Nizam al Mulk contributed a Peishcawb of 1½ Crors || in Jewels, Treasure, and Goods, as did also Kummir s'din Khan, to the same Amount.

Since the Day of the general Slaughter, wherever any Granaries were, the Kuzzlebash seized them ; this and the Roads being stopt to all Quarters made Wheat 2 Seers a Rupée, Rice $1\frac{1}{2}$ Seer, and Ghee $1\frac{1}{2}$ Seer : Things were at that Rate for about twenty Days ; at last, Sirbullind Khan and Azim Allah Khan, having obtained a Pass and Licence, sent several Waggon's to fetch Corn from Feridabad. Whoever had any Carriages, sent them, several of the poor People and Banians going along with them.

In a little Time Wheat was sold seven Seers for a Rupée, but no more Rice than $2\frac{1}{2}$ Seers, and Ghee $\frac{2}{3}$ of a Seer ; during this Time the Kuzzlebash Horsemen were wont to go round about Feridabad, and other Places, marrauding twenty and thirty Coss each Way, spoiling all the Fields, and plundering all the Villages as they went, and killing the Inhabitants that made any Resistance. They gave their Horses, Camels, &c. Barley and Wheat-Straw instead of Grass, and the People of the City could have neither at any Rate, so that most of their Cattle died.

The latter End of *Mohirram, Danish-mund Khan (whose Brother Mullah Ali Akbar, was the Shah's Mullah Bashi), was, by Nadir Shah's Recommendation, raised to the Mansub of 7000, with its full Jaguir, besides the Post of Mahommed Shah's Khan Saman§; but a few Days after Nadir Shah's Departure he fell sick, and on the 14th of Ribby al Awwal† departed this Life. A rich Atlas Vest, and a Hunting Coat, of a rich Stuff, woven with Gold.

Four Yards of Tissue.

A rich Mandil or Turban.

A Knife with a Sheath of chased Gold.

The rest of the Khalaets were different, some had five Pieces, some four, three and two; and some had only one Piece of Gold, or one Piece of Silver Stuff, according to the Rank they bore.

About eight in the Morning, Mabommed Shab, seated in a Royal Litter, with a Canopy, Umbrella, and one led Litter, with several of the Omras, went towards the General Divan, the Omras being mounted at a small Distance behind him; when they came near the General Divan, the Emperor ordered Saad o' din Khan to let none but the Head Omras, and a few of the Chief Main-jubdars to go further. At the Door of the General Divan, all the Omras alighted, and followed on Foot to the Door of the private Divan, where Nadir Shab was; there the Emperor came off his Royal Litter, and went in;

in; after they had mutually embraced, they breakfasted together, and the Omras likewise had Breakfast given them. A little after, the following Things were brought in for Mahommed Shab:

A Crown set with Jewels.

A *Bazoubund Ditto.

A Girdle Ditto.

A Sword, the Handle set with Jewels.

A Sword with a straight Blade, such as most of the Deccanners use, called Dhoup.

An enamelled Cuttarr.

The Crown, Nadir Shab put on with his own Hands, making him an Apology at the same Time. After giving him some Advice, he took Leave of him. The Substance of the Advice was as follows: 'In the first Place, you must seize all the Omra's Jaghirs, and pay each of them according to their Manfubs and Rank, with ready Money, out of the Treasury. After this, Mahommed Shab taking Leave, returned back to Aeyb Mehl, from whence, he gave the Omras leave to go Home.

Upon this almost all who were married in Dehli sent back their Wives on finding them unwilling to leave their Native Country, only a few of the Chief Commanders and Officers, by the mildest Means and Intreaties, prevailed on some to seem contented to go; which Nadir Shab, after some Days March, being informed of, he ordered them all to be immediately sent back.

The Shah ordered Scidy Fokad Khan, the Cutual, to find out those People, and send them with a Guard to the Army, and commanded several of the Nissikbebis and Rakas likewise to assist. The Cutual, after great Search, found about sixty, and sent them away with a Party of his own Horse and some Nissikbebis; they reached the Army near Serbind, where the Shah ordered all their Heads to be cut off.

In the mean Time, Scidy Fokad Khan, having seized several more of those Deserters, he was going to send them also; but on hearing how the others were treated, he waited on the Emperor, and represented the Matter to him. Mahommed Shah said: 'He'll certainly kill these poor Wretches also, if they are sent; why should we be accessory to so much innocent Blood? Let them go wherever they please.'

When

When after the Battle Nadin Shab had sent for Mahommed Shab and his Bungalow to his Camp, one of his Generals represented to him, that in the Hindostan Camp there were 100,000 Horses and a great many Camels, and as these People had, by his Clemency, received Quarter, should he order what Camels and Horses were fit for the Royal Stables to be seized for his Use, it would not be so great a Hardship upon them. To which the Shab answered: 'I have given these People Quarter in all Respects; besides, the Bread of Soldiers depends on their Horses; most of them are in wretched and indigent Circumstances; should they lose their Horses, they and their Families would be reduced to Beggary and Starving. It would be far from Humanity to treat them ill, now they are at our Mercy; therefore don't molest or insult them on any Account.

Mahommed Khan Bungush had, for a long Time, been in Expectation of the Soubahdari of Alehabad, especially after Nadin Shab's Departure; but not finding he was likely to succeed, on the 27th of *Safer, he made off, and went towards his own Zemidari. In his

A Per-

A Personal Description and Character of Nadir Shah, which I had from the Gentleman who favoured me with the Account of his Exploits before his Expedition to India.

NADIR SHAH is about fifty-five Years, upwards of six Foot high,
well-proportion'd, of a very robust Make and Constitution, his Complexion sanguine and inclining to be fat, but the Fatigue he undergoes prevents it; he has fine large Black-eyes and Eye-brows; and, in short, is one of the most comely Men I ever beheld. The Injury the Sun and Weather have done to his Complexion only gives him a more manly Aspect. His Voice is so uncommonly loud and strong, that he frequently, and without straining it, gives Orders to his People at above a hundred Yards Distance.
He drinks Wine with Moderation, but is extremely addicted to Women, in which he affects great Variety, and yet never neglects his Business on their Account; his

Hours of Retirement among the Ladies, and but few, seldom entering their Apartments before Eleven or Twelve at Night, and is up and in Public by Five in the Morning. His Diet is simple, chiefly Pillaw and plain Dishes; and, if public Affairs require his Attendance, he neglects his Meals, and satisfies his Hunger with a few parched Beans (of which he always carries some in his Pockets), and a Draught of Water. In the Camp, or in the City, he is almost constantly in Public, and if not, he may be sent to, or spoke with by any Person. He musters, pays and cloaths his Army himself, and will not suffer any Perquisites to be taken from the Soldiers by his Officers, on any Pretence whatever. He has Monthly Accounts transmitted to him of the State of Affairs in all Parts of his Dominions, and holds a Correspondence with his several private Spies in every Place: Besides, in every Province and City there is a Person called Hum. Calâm, appointed to inspect into the Governor's Actions, and keep a Register of them; no Affair of any Consequence can be transacted but in the Presence of that Officer, who, besides the Account the Governor is obliged to send Monthly, Monthly, I transmit his Journal by a separate Conveyance whenever he thinks proper, without permitting the Governor to peruse it; he has no settled Salary or Gratuity for his Trouble, but is rewarded or punished just as Nadir Shah finds he deserves. This extraordinary Caution in a great Measure prevents the Governor's oppressing the People, or entering into any Conspiracies or rebellions against him. He is extremely generous, particularly to his Soldiers, and bountifully rewards all in his Service, who behave well. He is, at the same Time, very severe and strict in his Discipline, punishing with Death those who commit a great Offence; and with the Loss of their Ears, those whose Transgressions are of a slighter Nature; he never pardons the Guilty of what Rank soever, and is highly displeased, if, after he has thoroughly examined the Affair, any Person presumes to intercede in their Behalf, before which they may give their Sentiments with Freedom.

When on a March, or in the Field, he contents himself to eat, drink, and sleep like a common Soldier, and enures all his Officers to the same severe Discipline. He is of so hardy a Con-

a Constitution, that he has been often known of a frosty Night to repose himself upon the Ground in the open Air, wrapt up in his Cloak, with only a Saddle for his Pillow, especially when, upon an extraordinary Enterprize which required Expedition, he has been obliged to out-march his Baggage, by which Means he has fallen upon the Enemy when they least expected him. He is never happy but when in the Field, and laments the Time he is obliged to stay in a City to refresh his Troops, in which (as in all Things else) he uses the utmost Dispatch. His Meals are over in less than Half an Hour, after which he returns to Business; so that the Servants who attend him standing are changed three or four Times a Day. He never indulges himself in any Kind of Pleasure in the Day-time, but constantly at Sun-set retires to a private Apartment; where, unbending himself at once from Business, he sups with three or four Favourites, and drinks a Quart, or at most three Pints of Wine, behaving all the Time in the freest and most facetious Manner. In this private Conversation no Person is allowed to mention any Thing relating to public Business; nor, at other Times, must they

they presume upon this Intimacy to behave with more Familiarity than their Equals. Two of his Evening-Companions happening to transgress in that Point, by taking the Liberty to advise him in Public, he immediately ordered them to be strangled, saying: 'Such Fools were not fit to live, who could not distinguish between Nadir Shah and Nadir Kali.' He has been very kind to those who please him in private Conversation, and behave with a becoming Decency and DefERENCE in Public; where they are taken no more Notice of, nor have they any more Influence over him than others of the same Rank.

His Mother, who was living in the Year 1737, (at the Request of some who were attached to the Royal Family) intreated Nadir Shah, some Time after he had seized the King, to restore him, not doubting but his Majesty would make him sufficient Amends, by creating him Generalissimo for Life. He ask'd her, 'whether she really thought so?' She told him, 'She did.' Upon which he smil'd and said, 'If I was an old Woman, perhaps I might be inclined to think so too, and desired her to give herself no Trouble about State Affairs.'

He

He was married to Shah Tahmasp's Aunt, the youngest Sister of Shah Sultan Husain, by whom, I heard, he had one Daughter. He has several young Children by his Concubines, and two Sons by a Woman he married in his Obscurity. The Eldest, Raza Kuli Mirza, is about twenty-five Years of Age. He was trained up from his Childhood in the Army, where from a Subaltern he has been gradually advanced to the Rank of a General and appointed Vice-Roy of Perfia, during his Father's Expedition to India. The second Son Nesir Allah Mirza, who is about twenty-one Years of Age, is nominal Governor of Mysabad and the Province of Khorasan, having a Person to direct and manage for him.

His eldest Son, when he ranked as a Lieutenant, had only that Pay to subsist on, and in all other Stations had no more than his Commission entitled him to. His Father regarded him no more than he did the other Officers, and permitted him to associate with them, giving him to know, that if he was guilty of any Crime or Breach of Duty, he should be punished with as great Rigour as any of the rest. On his behaving well, he not only promoted him, but increased his Paternal eternal Affection for him. They who knew the young Man (for I never saw him) judge he'll make full as great a Figure in the World as his Father; having given signal Proofs of his Courage and Conduct in several Battles, and of his great Abilities in other Respects while Nadir Shah was in India. By my private Advices from thence I'm inform'd, that he govern'd the Empire with great Skill, and kept every Thing quiet and easy until his Father's Return.

Among Nadir Shah's extraordinary Faculties, his Memory is not the least to be admired, there being few Things of Moment that he ever said or did, but what he remembers; and can readily call all the principal Officers in his numerous Army by their Names. He knows most of the private Men who have served under him any Time, and can recollect when and for what he punished and rewarded any of them. He dictates to one or two Secretaries, and gives Orders about other Affairs at the same Time, with all the Regularity and Promptness imaginable.

In Time of Action, I'm told, he is equally surprising, it being scarce credible how quick he is in discerning the Odds on either Side, and how active in succouring his Troops. If any of his General Officers give Ground without being greatly over-powered, he rides up and kills him with a Battle-ax (which he always carries in his Hand) and then gives the Command to the next in Rank. In all the Battles, Skirmishes, and Sieges he has been engaged in (altho' he generally charges at the Head of his Troops) he never received the least Wound or Scar, and yet several Horses have been shot under him, and Bullets have grazed on his Armour.

and

I could relate many other remarkable Things that I have seen and heard of this great Hero, whose Actions already are sufficient to convince the World, that few Ages have produced his Equal. As he has performed such Wonders when he had hardly Money or Men, what may we not expect from him now he is possess'd of so immense a Treasure? 'Tis probable he may live thirty Years longer; and in that Space of Time, if his Designs are attended with the same Success he has hitherto met with, to what Pitch of Grandeur may not a Man of his unbounded Ambition and Courage arrive at?

LUVAMEH al Aftrack fi Mokarem al Akblack. By Jani Mahommed ibn Affaad Duani, and dedicated to Sultan Hassan Beg, Bahadr Khan. It is a Treatise of Moral Philosophy, containing Rules and Directions for tempering the Passions and Appetites; each Moral Duty, and vicious Habit, being fully treated of under their distinct Heads.

This Book is divided into Three Sections. The First of which considers Man in Regard to his own Person singly, as a Member of Society, and what Duties are incumbent on him. In the Second, he is considered as the Head of a Family, and Rules laid down for his Management, in Regard to each of those whom he has under his immediate Care. In the Third, he is considered as Head or Ruler of a Society or Kingdom, and Directions laid down for his Government in that State. Towards the latter End are annex'd, Plato's Instructions to Aristotle, containing fundry excellent Advices: As also a Translation of the Secret of Secrets, or Aristotle's Instructions to Alexander the Great, regarding his Conduct in Persia, which, by Order of the Khalif Maiman, was translated from the Original Greek into Arabic.

in high Esteem, and took the greatest Care to keep it secret. At last, Abul Fazel Mansour Zu Nikky, who was the Second Khan of the Abassi Race, by great Search, got a Copy thereof in the Pehlvi Language, and ordered Indan Mossam Abdal Mokassa, who was the most Learned of that Age, to translate it into Arabic. This Prince, ever after, made it his Guide, not only in Affairs relating to the Government, but in private Life also.

In the Year 380 of the Hegira, Sultan Mahmud Ghazi put it into Verse. And afterwards, in the Year 515, by Order of Bheram Shab ben Massaud, that which Abdal Mokassa had translated, was re-translated into Persic, by Abul Mala Nasser allah Mustafi; and this is that Kulila Dumna, which is now extant. As this latter had too many Arabic Verses, and obsolete Phrases in it; Molana Ali ben Houssein Varz, at the Request of Emir Sobeli, Keeper of the Seals to Sultan Houssein Mirza, put it into a more modern Style, and gave it the Title of Anuar Sobeli.

In the Year 1002, the Great Moghol Jhal o'din Mahommed Akbar ordered his own Secretary and Vizir, the Learned Abul Fazel, to illustrate the obscure Passages, abridge the long Digressions, and put it into such a Style as would be most familiar to all Capacities; which he accordingly did, and gave it the Name of Ayar Danish, or the Criterion of Wisdom.

ANUAR Sobeli. An Edition of the same Book, wrote in Sultan Houssein's Time.
